

THE CINDERELLA SUITE

Story by JOAN S. MACKANESS

Illustrations by
C. TREGEAR

Music by FRANK HUTCHENS

To Janet Lawson

No. I. Cinderella

ONCE upon a time there was a young and beautiful girl called Cinderella who was always sweet and gentle. She had a cruel step-mother and two step-sisters who made her wear old and ugly clothes, and do all the work of the house. When her work was finished she would sit down among the cinders in the chimney corner, so her two ugly sisters called her Cinderella.

Andante espressivo

PIANO

8ve

p rather wistfully

mf

con Ped.

8ve

loco

8ve

loco

p

mf

mf

p

No. 5. The Prince Dances with Cinderella

WHO should come to greet her when she arrived but the Prince himself. He danced with her nearly all the evening and she enjoyed herself so much that she forgot the time.

When she glanced at the clock it was just going to strike twelve. She ran out of the ballroom as fast as she could, but as she was hurrying down the stairs one of her little glass slippers came off. She had so little time she couldn't wait to pick it up.

Just as she passed through the great entrance doors, the clock struck twelve and Cinderella found that her fine clothes had vanished and the little ragged frock was there instead.

Tempo di Valse

FRANK HUTCHENS

Grazioso

Red. simile

cantabile